

Sensor-removal penalty across model families

The three nonlinear models show similar sensor-removal penalties. Removing voltage produces a substantially larger Macro F1 reduction than removing current — in 20 of 20 paired model × fold comparisons.